15 Proven Sequences

Stories fail when they are posted as isolated frames. Sequences with a beginning, tension, and payoff hold completion rate and drive replies.

What's inside

- 15 frame-by-frame sequences
- Poll and question sticker placement
- Completion rate benchmarks
- Swipe-up / link sticker timing
- Highlight organisation strategy

Sequence Structure

- 01 Frame 1 poses a question or tension
- 02 Frames 2-4 build context or evidence
- 03 Frame 5 delivers the payoff and the ask
- 04 Never place the CTA before the value

Interaction Stickers

- 01 Polls in frame 2 lift completion on the whole sequence
- 02 Question stickers generate content for future posts
- 03 Quiz stickers work best for educational sequences
- 04 Limit to one interactive element per sequence

Link Timing

- 01 Place the link sticker after the value is delivered
- 02 Repeat the link in the final frame for late joiners
- 03 Tell viewers explicitly what happens when they tap
- 04 Track link taps as a percentage of frame views

Highlights

- 01 Group by buyer question, not by chronology
- 02 Lead with the highlight that answers "what do you do"
- 03 Refresh covers to match current brand palette
- 04 Cap each highlight at 10 frames
