

Logo Design Brief Template

Designer-Ready Brief

Logo projects go wrong when feedback is subjective. A brief that defines strategy up front turns "I don't like it" into "it doesn't meet the brief".

What's inside

- Positioning and personality definition
- Competitive visual landscape audit
- Application and constraint inventory
- Approval process and stakeholder map
- Feedback rubric that avoids taste debates

Strategy First

- 01 Define what the brand stands for in one sentence
- 02 Name the three adjectives it must convey
- 03 Name three adjectives it must never convey
- 04 Identify the primary audience and their expectations

Competitive Landscape

- 01 Collect the logos of eight direct competitors
- 02 Identify the category visual clichés to avoid
- 03 Note where differentiation is possible
- 04 Decide whether to fit in or stand out, deliberately

Practical Constraints

- 01 List every application: signage, app icon, embroidery, print
- 02 Specify minimum reproduction size
- 03 Confirm single-colour and reversed versions are required
- 04 Note any legal or trademark constraints

Approval Process

- 01 Name the single decision maker
- 02 Agree the number of revision rounds up front
- 03 Feedback must reference the brief, not personal taste
- 04 Set dates for each review stage
