Brand in Motion

Brands that look consistent in print often fall apart in video. Defining motion rules keeps every editor producing on-brand output.

What's inside

- Easing and duration standards
- Lower-third and caption specs
- Logo animation do and do-not
- Transition vocabulary
- Export presets by platform

Timing

- 01 Define standard durations: fast 150ms, base 300ms, slow 500ms
- 02 Specify default easing curves and when to deviate
- 03 Motion should never delay comprehension
- 04 Match pacing to brand personality deliberately

Typography In Motion

- 01 Lower-third position, size, and safe margins fixed
- 02 Caption style, size, and contrast defined for sound-off viewing
- 03 Text holds on screen long enough to read twice
- 04 Never animate text so it is unreadable mid-transition

Logo Treatment

- 01 One approved logo animation, used consistently
- 02 Minimum hold duration before cutting away
- 03 Never distort, rotate, or bounce the mark
- 04 Specify clear space in motion as well as static

Delivery

- 01 Export presets for each platform and aspect ratio
- 02 Safe zones documented for vertical formats
- 03 Loudness normalised to platform standards
- 04 Caption files delivered alongside every video
